—The firemen are planning for more dances, the Racines having fixed upon next Monday evening and the Phoenix hook and ladder boys on the 1st of June.
—It is evidently intended that strollers in the Baylis park shall keep off the grass. Stakes and wires now border the gravel walks as a gentle hint.
—To-day the juvenile band, to the number of nineteen, are to appear for the first time in their new uniforms and take part in the Odd Fellows' doings in Omaha.
—The recent flurry about condemning a nuisance the old building just east of the Bryant house, seems to have gone down as suddenly as it came up. It was simply a sudden squall.
—The county is being thoroughly organized in the interests of the prohibitory amendment, and there is the promise of a hot fight, the opposition preparing likewise for battle.
—In digging on Broadway yesterday the gas men found an ancient stump several feet below the present grade of the street. A number of old citizens, of course, recognized it, and recalled many reminiscences of by-gone days.
—There will be a mass meeting in the interest of the prohibitory amendment to the constitution, at Neola, next Thursday evening, under the general supervision of the county executive committee, the local affairs being arranged by the township committee.
—The Philharmonic society has secured for a concert here May 29, the Lotta opera company. In the company is Skilton, the well-known cornetist, also Miss Nellie Bangs, who is somewhat known here, having attended school with Miss Pusey, and being a very skillful pianist.

PERSONAL.

Col Cochran is at home again from his farm at Little Sioux.
Deputy Clerk Warren has returned from his Illinois trip.

BEFORE THE BAR.

How Justice Was Meted Out in Small Doses Yesterday.

Charles Leinborn, a Swedish tailor, yesterday was brought before Judge Aylesworth. Charles was hard looking. His coat was so badly torn that he had to carry it upon his arm. His face was barked and bruised as the score of a street fight. Blood spots appeared on his shirt sleeves, his hair was unkempt, his eyes bunged out and bugged up, nerves unstrung—in fact, badly off. Only the morning before he had stood before the bar, pleaded guilty to being drunk, and was fined $7, including costs. He was allowed to go on a promise of paying this in the evening, but instead of doing so continued his drunk, got into a fight and was again arrested. For this second offense the judge taxed up $14, making a total bill of $21, which the fellow had no money to offset.

C. Olson also appeared, the charge against him being resisting an officer. It seems that he was trying to get the above named Charles home, when the police appeared. He tried to have the police let him go, and for this he was grabbed and locked up himself, by Officers Ousick and Brooks. The judge remarked that he was at the station when the officers looked him up, and thought they used him pretty roughly. He let the man go.

Another tailor, Victor Leinborn, had also been on a hurrah. He had taken four officers to put him in, and in the struggle they had pulled off one of his legs, fortunately a wooden one. He was a fresh arrival from Omaha, and was let off with a $7 fine.

William Campbell was so drunk as to brag that he could kick any four policemen who should tackle him. He changed his mind, and looked very penitent and humble as the judge figured up his bill at $6.50.

"Peasant Charlie," whose real name is Charles Dryre, dropped $9 into the till for being drunk and smashing windows. He also paid for the damage done in his frolic.

"Frank James" was arrested yesterday by Officers Field and Morse for being drunk. He did not prove to be the great Missouri outlaw, the best evidence of this being that no cash or valuables were found upon his person, and when he was sobered up enough to tell the truth he admitted that he had only given that notorious name just for fun, and that he was not one of the James boys, but a simple moulder named Roddy Costigan. The judge remarked that it was a narrow escape, and let him off with a $7 tax.

COLLARING CONGRESS.

Judge James Starts Forth Single Handed on That Mission.

The Prospects Are That It Will Neither Hurt nor Help the Pending Bill.

Another missionary from this city started out for Washington yesterday afternoon to see if anything could be done to secure the passage of the bill providing for a government building in Council Bluffs. It was none other than Judge W. C. James. There is every reason to believe that he will go through to Washington, instead of being called back, as in the case of Mr. Morgan. This probability is strengthened, too, by the fact that Mr. James, instead of itching to take the trip, as was the case with "Colonel" Chapman and Mr. Morgan, discouraged the idea of sending any one, and told the committee of the board of trade that he did not believe that any good would result from any one going. The committee, who had already chosen Dr. Lawrence and himself to take the place of Mr. Morgan and the "Colonel," thought they ought to chance at least one delegate, and insisted on Mr. James going, saying that if he would not go, they would find some one who would. He has yielded to the pressure, and yesterday afternoon armed with his grip sack, he made the start.

For reasons already stated in THE BEE, there seems no chance to help the bill, as it stands now in about as favorable a condition as possible, and no seeming power on earth can hurry it any, and it is conceded that when reached it will be passed. The only question seems to be as to whether it will be reached before the adjournment of congress. There are a number which take precedence, and there seems no chance to make these get out of the way, any more than Conman Hepburn would allow this bill to be put aside to give some other one a chance.

WANDERING WAIF.

A Five-Year-Old Hunting for His Father's Brick House and Two Chimneys.

Yesterday morning about 5 o'clock a little fellow, aged only five years, was found in a pile of ties near the old agricultural works by some workmen, who proceeded to interrogate him. The little fellow could not give any very clear account of himself, except that his name was Tommy Lindley, and that he wanted to go to his papa. He could not tell where said papa lived, and could give no very definite clue to solve the mystery beyond his childish description that his house was a brick one with two chimneys. The little fellow was taken to the house of Mr. Gates and there cared for, and furnished food of which he partook heartily, as though having had no such opportunity for some time. The early hour of the morning at which he was found would indicate that he had been out all night, at least, but where he wandered from seems yet a mystery.

Dr. Anson Smith says in 'The Evangelist' that it seems to me that vociferous praying is an abomination to God, to angels, and to men, and that, lifeless prayers are a little worse than that. A little child, who seems to be a strange minister pray with his head thrown backward, his eyes pointing skyward, and with a loudness as though even thunders had uttered his voice, and she whispered in her mother's ear: "Would he have to pray so loud if he lived nearer to God?" "No, my child, the nearer we get to God the more hushed are our voices."

ROBBED WHILE ASLEEP.
A Guest of the Bryant House Finds His Gold and Silver Gone.

A young man named A. A. Larson, who was stopping at the Bryant house, on awakening yesterday morning found that his clothes lay near the door on the floor, and that he had lost what little money he possessed, consisting of a five dollar gold piece and about four dollars in silver. A cripple occupied the room with him, named Ed. Sullivan, but he was not suspected of having taken the money until later in the day when it was found that Sullivan was rather flush, in strange contrast with his poverty-stricken condition of the night before. He was hunted up and arrested, and there was found upon him a little over four dollars. He denied the charge and was given a trial which led to his conviction, and he was let down to jail for thirty days.

The state university is to have a new building for the medical department. It will cost $30,000.
Ottumwa advises state that interest in the Bear Creek gold mines near that place does not seem to flag in the least. Real estate in that vicinity is valued at fabulous prices, as compared with the surface value of the ground. A forty-acre tract sold for $4,000 last week to one of the speculators, and at surface figures it is not worth over $20 per acre. Visitors go the mines every day.

CITY CONCERNS.

How They Are Being Cared for by the Aldermanic Fathers.

The Equalization of Taxes Has Been Long Drawn Out.

The work of equalizing the taxes has been prolonged until it has become a nuisance to the flesh. The new council first met on the 14th of March, and had four meetings that month. This month they have thus far had twenty-one meetings or attempts to meet. The assessment books were turned over to them on the 3d of April, and the council has been supposed to meet every evening, the law requiring to meet from day to day until the matter is disposed of. Six times of late it has been impossible to secure a quorum, and on other occasions other business has crowded in so that the equalization could receive little attention. These circumstances together with the perplexities naturally attending such a work have caused the equalization to drag along slowly.

At the meeting Tuesday night, Mayor Bowman presided. Aldermen Shugart, Newell, Wood, Eicher and Siedentopf were present, though it was after nine o'clock before a sufficient number arrived to form a quorum. Before the work of equalization could be taken up there was other business to dispose of.

Bills were allowed from the general fund to the extent of $243.37, and from the police fund amounting to $54.35, making a total of $297.72. On motion, the special committee to whom was referred the matter of Indian creek, was authorized to advertise for bids to remove the flume between First and Second streets and store the same in the power, and was given power to act.

Mr. Newton presented a verbal complaint of Mr. Newton concerning the location of powder magazines. It was referred to the mayor and chief engineer of the fire department.

The committee on streets and alleys reported the street near Rapp's as being in a bad condition, and recommended that it be filled. The committee was instructed to repair the same as it thought proper.

Petitions were granted and bonds approved as follows: Joe Hancock, saloon on Crescent City road; J. C. Gaspacher, pool-table; E. S. Cook, billiard table; Nicholas & Boekhoff, saloon and billiard table; Smith & Brock, saloon and billiard.

The work of equalizing the taxes was at last reached, and the assessments of the following thus fixed:
Stewart Bros. .... $8,500
Smith & Crittenden. .... 8,500
Harkness & Orcutt. .... 5,000
Shugart Implement Co. .... 8,500
Weis & Clausen. .... 3,000

The council then adjourned till last evening deciding to take up no business whatever except that of equalization and to finish that up.

PROHIBITION.

Opening of the Campaign Last Evening.

Quite a large and enthusiastic meeting was held last evening at Dohany's opera house in the interest of the prohibitory amendment, Rev. Mr. Lemen presided.

The Philharmonic club furnished excellent music. Rev. Dr. Cleland offered the opening prayer, and short addresses were made by several. Rev. Cyrus Hamilton spoke of the educative effect of the measure. Capt. R. B. Hart urged its being made a part of the constitution, that it might not be subject to legislative changes. Capt. Price sketched the history of prohibition in the state, and claimed that brewing was unproductive labor and more than unproductive and therefore should not demand protection. C. P. Scott followed with one of his earnest, enthusiastic speeches.

GLENWOOD GATHERING.

Local Events of an Interesting Nature—Business and Building Notes.

Correspondence of THE BEE.
GLENWOOD, Ia., April 22.—Mr. R. W. Record, a highly esteemed citizen of this place, and at one time deputy postmaster, died on Sunday last of consumption. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. F. W. Parsons, of the Baptist church, of which the deceased was a member, assisted by T. L. Stephens, with whom Mr. Record had been for some years associated in business.

And this leads to notice that there has been an unusual mortality in Glenwood and its vicinity since January 1st. I have not been able to obtain exact figures, but learn that it is largely in excess of any previous time of equal length. There have been some cases of scarlet fever, but the disease has not been epidemic. Most deaths have seemed to be in the natural order of events, and hence only the more observant have noticed that the number is relatively larger.

The churches and Sunday schools of the city are making preparations for a Sunday school convention, to be held here next week. One of the most interesting features of this gathering promises to be a children's meeting on Wednesday afternoon, when from six to ten Sunday schools are expected to be present en masse. But of this more anon.

In making changes long needed, to adapt the buildings for their instant use. There is just now a squabble on hand concerning the site for the new buildings, and the removal of Dr. V. W. Archibald from the superintendent. What may be the outcome, can only be surmised, but some fear that great injury to the institution may result from present unhappy complications.

Mr. J. V. Hinchman's building is almost completed. This building contains the hall that is to be used by the Free Masons, who since January 1st, have been so far as we can learn, entirely without a place of meeting. It is inferred that Mr. William Goat, Esq., will have extra work to do as soon as the new hall is ready for occupancy. Candidates for free rides are of course desirous that he shall be in good humor when their turn comes.

The Glenwood schools are justly the pride of the town. They are presided over by Prof. Crain, assisted by a corps of eight teachers. The high school graduates there at its approaching commencement. The attendance in the lower departments has been seriously interfered with during the year by the measles, which were epidemic for some time. OBSERVER.

IOWA ITEMS.

The printers' ball at Des Moines given for the benefit of the hospital realized $100.

The people of Monticello have decided by a vote, to heat its school house by steam.

Davenport's real and personal assessed wealth this year is $4,208,250.

The Misses Marion of Sioux City have fallen heir to $50,000 by the death of their grandmother in Paris.

The Ottumwa saloon-keepers have petitioned the city council for a reduction of the saloon-license from $1,000 to $150.

Inmates of the Keokuk calaboose destroy their clothes purposely in order to get a new suit at the expense of the city.

The artesian well at Sioux City has reached a depth of 1,520 feet. The drill has been cutting through hard rock for over 200 feet.

W. Bush Cox, a man of superior education and a fine artist, died on the 17th in the Wapello county poor-house of delirium tremens. His last words were: "The way of the transgressor is hard. Young man, beware!"
